FACING A GRIZZLY.

HOW A BOY KILLED AN ANGRY BEAR WITH A BLOW OF AN AX.

His Brave Act Saved the Life of One of His Companions—The Geology Class Found Something in the Rockies It Wasn't Looking For.

It was in September—and the Colorado sun had done its duty and made Phil as brown of face and stout of limb as any of us—that the geology class, consisting of the professor and ten pupils, made an excursion into the range with the object of taking a practical lesson among the limestone beds at the back of Lincoln park.

As we went—feeling very hilarious at the idea of making an independent expedition, even with Blinks for a general—scrambling over rocks and fallen trees, chasing squirrels and chipmunks, throwing stones at birds and rabbits, and behaving generally just like what we were—a parcel of school-boys.

Presently we emerged from the trees and came out upon another little open parklike stretch of ground. Half way across it our attention was suddenly attracted by a stir among some high grass, and out jumped a little, dark colored, short legged animal, which looked like a woolly pig—if there be any such thing in nature.

At first we were puzzled, and away we all went, with a shout, in pursuit.

Phil happened to be some distance behind at the moment, being busily engaged in digging a tarantula's nest out of the ground with his knife; but as soon as he saw what we were doing he came racing after us, shouting: "Look out! Look out! It's a grizzly!"

We did not hear what, we were making so much noise ourselves.

But the little animal, whatever it was, was too quick for us and disappeared into some willows where we were still 20 yards behind. The next moment the willows waved and bent and out bounded a great she bear—a grizzly!

With a yell of dismay we all turned and, scattering like a flock of sparrows when a cat jumps into the midst of them, fled for the nearest trees. Blinks, quite forgetting that he was the general of the little expeditionary force, made such use of his long legs that he was safely up a tree before any of the rest of us had reached one.

As for me, I never reached one at all. In turning to run I tripped over the ax, and though I was up again in an instant the check made me lose the last of the fugitives.

The chase was very soon over. In six jumps, as it seemed, the great bear caught me, and with one blow of her paw on the middle of my back, sent me, face downward, to the ground, with every atom of breath driven out of my body.

This last circumstance was a good thing for me, I could not have moved a muscle if I had wished to. Consequently the bear supposed that I was dead, and instead of tearing me up into small pieces, as I expected, she began sniffing me all over and turning me about with her claws.

Suddenly, however, she ceased and began to growl, and I heard Blinks up in his tree call out, "Go back! You can't do any good. You'll only get yourself killed too." From which I concluded that Blinks and the bear had come to an understanding, they both supposed me to be dead.

I was beginning to recover my breath a little by this time, and in my anxiety to see what was going forward I made a slight movement with one arm, and in an instant the bear had that arm between her teeth. It hurt me so horribly that I flinched, and all that happened afterward I gathered from the other boys.

Phil, when he saw me knocked down, instead of climbing up a tree like the rest, ran back to where I had dropped the ax, and, picking it up, advanced to my rescue.

It was a mad thing to do, there is no doubt about that; but Phil did it—and without a thought of his own danger. It was in vain that Blinks called to him to go back; he did not seem to hear, but kept coming on slowly, with his eyes fixed on the bear, and the ax held in readiness to strike.

The bear dropped my arm and advanced a step, standing across my body, growling and turning up her lips until all her great white teeth were exposed; but still Phil came on. At six feet distance he stopped. The bear took a step forward, and then another, and then, with all the strength of his body doubled by the intense excitement of the moment, Phil struck at her with such force and precision that he split her skull clean in two.

But, even in dying, the bear succeeded in doing some mischief.

With a last convulsive effort she struck out, and with her great claws tore away the front of Phil's coat, vest and shirt, and made three deep cuts all across his chest from the left shoulder down to the right.

Another kick and Phil must certainly have been killed. As it was, he stood for a moment swaying to and fro, and then fell forward upon the dead body of the bear—"Grizzly Phil," by Sidney F. Hamp, in St. Nicholas.

PERSONAL ENCOUNTERS.

Some Interesting Notes About Duels and the Practice of Duelling.

Even in Germany the popularity of the duel is open to some doubt. Its existence is due not so much to a desire for a combat as of four what people will say if there is no fight. There have been noted duelists who were always ready for a fray, and when they entered a drawing room women quailed and hoped it would not be their husbands or lovers who would be so unlucky as to except the use of the men of blood.

During the occupation of Paris by the allies there were duels every day, the Frenchmen usually being the challengers and the victors, as they were very skillful with the small sword. Sometimes, however, they made a mistake, as when they jested at an English officer over losing his leg at Waterloo. The officer discovered that the loss of his leg did not interfere in the least with the Englishman's aim.

There have been exceptions to the mania for fighting at any price. An English captain, challenged by a Frenchman, had the choice of weapons and chose pistols. The Frenchman, though he would fight with anything but the sword, and interested friends finally compromised on lances, on horseback. The combat naturally attracted much attention. A great crowd witnessed the duel. One man received three ugly prods, but finally killed his antagonist.

No duelist could ever be made smile over the famous story of the Englishman and Frenchman who were to fight a duel in a pitch dark room. Not wishing to kill his man, the Englishman fired up the chimney when the word was given, and, to his surprise, brought down the Frenchman, who had hidden there. When this story is told in France, it is always the Englishman who is up the chimney.

Fighting Fitzgerald was successful in 18 duels before it was discovered that he always wore a coat of mail. For years his fame in society had rested on his invariable success as a duelist, and this discovery was his undoing. A certain major in fighting him objected when his sword snapped on a heart thrust and demanded an investigation. He was afterward hanged in Ireland for murdering a neighbor.

The most tragic duel in England was between Lord Byron, a grandchild of the poet, and a Frenchman. It was fought in a tavern room by the light of one tallow candle. Lord Byron was tried for murder, but got off on manslaughter, from the penalties of which he escaped because he was a peer of the realm. This safeguard of peers was done away with only during the present reign.—Chicago News.

Bedrock Terrapin Facts.

"I have controlled the entire supply of Chesapeake bay diamond back terrapin for a good many years," said Mr. A. T. Lavallotte of Crisfield, Md. "In times gone by terrapin were so plentiful that they were fed to the negro slaves, being about the cheapest kind of food at that period. Some of the masters would overfeed their slaves to such an extent that they were compelled to sign articles of agreement that terrapin should not be fed but once or twice per week. If anybody doubts this, there are old documents still on file at some of the county seats of the eastern shore of Maryland that will confirm the truth of what I say.

"The price for terrapin increased with the demand up to 1893, the supply during that time being on the decrease. 'Full counts'—that is, specimens measuring seven inches and over and weighing from three to six pounds—were worth then from $60 to $180 per dozen, six inch counts weighing from 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 pounds bringing from $80 to $150 a dozen. The smaller sizes, containing few eggs, are never in great demand. During a single season I have sold Delmonico's $15,000 worth of terrapin. I have also supplied John F. Chamberlain for years, and he can come nearer telling a perfect terrapin by its outward appearance than any other man in this country.

"Since 1893 the price has decreased, while the supply has not increased. This is owing to the practice of small firms in shipping common southern, North Carolina and Texas terrapin, and trying to palm them off on buyers as the genuine Chesapeake article. The trick, however, rarely succeeds.

"A large eight inch terrapin is said by scientists to be 60 to 70 years old. In not one case in a thousand do the males measure over five inches or weigh over one pound."—Washington Post.

The Greatest Charm of Granada.

But when all is said, in the end as in the beginning, for the great charm of Granada was in the grove, with its cool shade, its soft green light, its incomparable outlook. Here was perpetual twilight when all the land beyond lay grilling in the sun. The chant of loquats was loud in the gardens of the Alhambra, loud the water carrier's ceaseless cry of "Agua! agua fresca!" White hot, the sky met the now snowless heights of the Sierra Nevada; as from an oven came the air that blew over the Vega, burned and scorched the town's white houses, climbed its triple hill. Yet under the elms planted by the conquering Englishman there was always rest from blinding light and pitiless heat.—Elizabeth R. Pennell in Century.

Force and Perseverance.

There are two ways of attaining an important end—force and perseverance. Force falls to the lot only of the privileged few, but austere and sustained perseverance can be practiced by the most insignificant. Its silent power grows irresistible with time.—Mme. Swetchine.

The One Man Who Was Praised.

Almost the only man who is praised throughout the book (Barras' memoirs) is a man who by universal assent deserved the praise that he receives—Marshall Lefebvre, Duc de Dantzig, the husband in the well known play (although perhaps not in real life) of "Mme. Sans-Gene." Barras never names him without speaking of his courtesy, real goodness and perfect uprightness of character, and this even at a time when he was holding the highest offices under Napoleon, and faithfully serving one who to Barras was not only the usurper, but the deadly personal foe. Barras had much occasion for gratitude to Lefebvre, and with so bad a man as Barras this might have been expected to secure his hatred had he thought Lefebvre worth it, but the Duc de Dantzig, as is well known, was not an eagle, and he had the tact never to write to Barras without telling him how much he continued to feel the unvarying kindness which in the days of the directorate he himself had received from the director.—London Athenaeum.

The Struggling Young Author.

"I have thought of a scheme for getting rich," said the struggling young author, "and that is to save the money that I would otherwise spend in sending out manuscripts to the publishers and for their return, and put it out at interest; instead, thus forming a sort of a sinking fund for my old age. I think there may be something in this."—New York Sun.

A man's health.

A man's health cannot be maintained through the world. He depends on it for enjoyment, for happiness, for success, for the achievement of anything he has in hand. Americans take big chances. They risk everything in business. They have confidence in their brains and in their ability. The American business man is active, elastic, knock him down with failure and he is up again in a minute. As long as he keeps his health, failure doesn't matter. He has lost a little time, but that is all. If he can keep his health, he will go on to success. He feels sure of that, and yet his health is the very thing he neglects more than anything else. His health is the rope by which he climbs to success. It behooves him to keep the rope in good condition, and not to neglect broken strands. When the rope of health breaks even a little bit, it should be mended at once. It is easier to keep it in than it is to regain it. When a man feels himself running down, when he realizes a loss of vitality and energy, he must call a halt. He is on a downward grade. The strands of his rope are parting rapidly.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has helped thousands of men in just this condition. It makes health, it makes rich blood, it forces out impurities and kills germs. It doesn't make any difference what disease—kidney, rheumatism, consumption—skin disease, the "Golden Medical Discovery" will cure it absolutely. No man can keep his health on the body when it is full of rich, pure blood.

Every man who cares to keep his health should have Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Advice—a finely illustrated book of 100 pages. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, No. 25 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

TUESDAY, JULY 23, 1896.

L. P. FISHER, NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING AGENT, 21 Merchants' Exchange, San Francisco, is our authorized agent. This paper is kept on file in his office.

FOR PRESIDENT,
WILLIAM J. BRYAN, OF NEBRASKA.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
ARTHUR SEWALL
OF MAINE.

LET WISE COUNSEL PREVAIL.

William J. Bryan is the nominee of three parties for President of the United States. Arthur Sewall is the nominee of two of those parties for Vice President, and Thomas E. Watson is the nominee of one of the three for the same position. This complicates matters somewhat, and unless wise counsel prevails, may result in giving the electoral votes of some of the States to the gold man.

The people do not elect the President and Vice President by direct vote. The Constitution provides that "each State shall appoint, in such manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors, equal to the whole number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress, but no Senator or Representative, or person holding an office of profit or trust under the United States, shall be appointed an elector. The Legislatures of the several States have provided for the appointment of Presidential electors by vote of the qualified electors. There might, under the peculiar circumstances now existing, be two distinctive electoral tickets nominated in each State, one set for Bryan and Sewall, and the other for Bryan and Watson. This would divide the Bryan vote, and give the gold electors a great advantage. For instance, here in Nevada the Silver party might nominate three Presidential electors, say Thomas Brown, William Jones and John Robinson; the Populists three, named James Smith, Edward Johnson, and Joseph Williams. One faction of the Democrats has already an electoral ticket in the field. Assuming that all these electors are for Bryan, they divide the silver vote of the State, and make the appointment of the gold electors possible. To prevent such a division should be the aim of every patriotic citizen.

No movement tending to create dissensions to further personal ends should be countenanced by the people.

An overwhelming majority of the voters of Nevada are for Bryan for President and he is fairly entitled to the electoral vote of the State. The Silver party, the Populists and Silver Democrats and Republicans should meet in conference and agree upon a ticket, which all who are opposed to the gold standard can consistently support, and not encourage any side shown in the interest of the single gold standard.

PATRIOTISM, NOT PARTISANISM.

A poll of 751 delegates in the National Silver Convention at St. Louis as to their political antecedents gave the following result: Republicans, 526; Democrats, 147; Populists, 49; Prohibitionists, 9; Independents, 21. Of these 196 had served in the Union army, 49 were in the Confederate army and 4 were Mexican war veterans.

How completely this refutes the falsehoods of the gold press that the party was started, not for the purpose of forcing the silver question to the front or compelling one or the other of the old parties to declare for free coinage, but to get Democrats into a few petty offices. Here we have the political antecedents of 721 delegates from all parts of the country to a national convention and find that 526 of those delegates—three-fourths of the whole number—had been Republicans.

What more is required to prove that the movement to restore the money of the constitution to its rightful place is patriotic, not partisan? Men who have been Republicans since the party was organized forty years ago have repudiated the party because the bosses repudiated the people in their national convention. The uprising to-day is not partisan, but against partisanship. It is a revolt against the despotic sway of the trusts and money kings. Many of the latter who have heretofore affiliated with the Democratic party have now joined the Republicans because of their declaration for the single gold standard, and Republicans are going to Bryan by thousands, not because he is a triple candidate, having been nominated by three conventions, but for the reason that he represents the masses as against the classes.

THE SILVER CRAZE EPIDEMIC.

The silver craze is epidemic in the East. It is spreading in every part of the country and neither goldbug logic nor money can stop it. Two private letters received at this office, one from Kentucky and the other from New York, say it is irresistible. Both, almost in the same words, say the people are going wild over the silver question, and each say, nothing can stay the silver tide. Bryan's words: "You shall not press down the crown of thorns upon the brow of labor; you shall not crucify mankind upon a cross of gold," are heard everywhere. The farmer, working to pay interest on the mortgage and the wages of his farm hands, and the laborer struggling to support his family, repeat it. It is heard in the factory, the farm house, the cottage and on the streets, and the people feel that the man who expressed the sentiment will afford them relief. For every gold Democrat who declares for McKinley there are a dozen silver Republicans who will vote for Bryan, and the $3,000,000 collected by Hanna from the trusts cannot prevent the election of the silver candidate. There is no gold in circulation and the people cannot see why it should be the standard of value.

The Littlefield Murderer.

WEAVERVILLE, Cal., July 27.—A motion for a change of venue to Mendocino county has been denied in the case of Joe Gregory, charged with the murder of Jack Littlefield. The trial has been set for August 17. The attorneys for Vanhorn and Crow, convicted of the murder of Jack Littlefield, have prepared a bill of exceptions for the Supreme Court, to be used on appeal from an order denying a motion for a new trial.

British Marines Prevent Bloodshed.

ATHENS, July 27.—A dispatch from the Island of Crete says that while the National Assembly was sitting Saturday a panic occurred and the Turks prepared to attack the Christians, whereupon the commander of the British Ironclad Hood lowered five boats to land a force of marines. Order was restored, however, before the action.

Hanna and His Man.

CLEVELAND, July 27.—Major McKinley to-day decided to remain at Cleveland until Wednesday, when he will return to Canton. Chairman Hanna will depart for New York this evening and meet the party leaders.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

A terrific wind blew down eight or nine houses at Cleveland, Ohio, Sunday night.

Ex-Governor Lewelling of Kansas, says Bryan will carry the State by 50,000 majority.

A rainstorm did serious damage near Dubuque, Iowa, Sunday night. Over four and three-quarters inches of water fell.

The Harland & Wolf and Workman & Clark shipyards at Belfast, Ireland, were almost wholly destroyed by fire yesterday. The damage is estimated at $1,000,000.

I. N. Coffey, President of the Illinois State Board of Pharmacy, was stabbed to death by Dr. Crabtree at Cairo Sunday night. Both were prominent druggists. Crabtree is in jail.

The London papers say the election of Bryan cannot fail to produce a financial convulsion in Europe. He will not wait for the consent of foreign nations to open the mints to silver.

William Henry Smith, general manager of the Associated Press, died at Lake Forest, Illinois, yesterday; aged 62 years. He held several prominent positions in Ohio, and was Collector of Customs at Chicago under Hayes.

Walter Winans, the American pistol shot, won first prize in the revolver competition in London, England, the scores being 89, 42 and 38. Winans has won twelve first and three second prizes.

The London Board of Trade has found that the ship Drummond Castle, which was wrecked off Ushant, France, June 16th, was lost through carelessness. Two hundred and fifty persons went down with the vessel, only one passenger and two seamen being saved.

The strike at the Brown hoisting works at Cleveland, Ohio, was settled yesterday. The company concedes all the men asked and agreed to reinstate all employees except those who were guilty of overt acts. The strike began seven weeks ago and cost several lives.

The Kansas City Times quotes ex-Congressman Harris as saying, "the Kansas plan is for the Populists, at their State Convention August 5th, to endorse Bryan and Sewall electors, whom the Democrats will name, and the Democrats endorse the Populist candidates for State offices."

The committee appointed at the meeting of the gold brokers in New York to devise means to stop gold exports for ninety days has submitted a report to the full meeting at J. Piermont Morgan's office in New York. The plan devised was pronounced effective. It is humiliating to know that a lot of gold brokers can drain the United States of its gold or stop the flow at pleasure.

A QUEER RUSSIAN GAME.

It Involves a Plunge Into Matrimony or a Heavy Forfeit.

In some parts of Russia a queer game is still played at Christmas time which has much to do with the future life of the participants. Some prominent person in the village announces that the annual matchmaking will be held at his house. On the appointed day the young men and women hasten to his house.

There are songs and games and dances, but they are simply a prelude to the more important business of the day. When the time comes, the hostess leads all the girls into one room, where they seat themselves on the benches. Laughing and chattering they are each promptly muffled in winding sheets by the hostess. The head and hair and form are securely covered, and when she is done the girls resemble puppets. The young men draw lots, and one by one they enter the room where the muffled girls sit. Helpless so far as sight or touch goes, the puzzled lover tries to locate his favorite. Maybe she would help him if her eyes were not hidden, but she is as helpless as he. Finally he chooses one, and then he may unveil her. This is the critical moment, and disappointment or rapture will be the result of seeing her face.

It is the law of custom that the man shall marry the girl he has picked out, and if either backs out a heavy forfeit must be paid. It is said that this matrimonial lottery is productive of many happy marriages. —Moscow Correspondent.

The Inspired Camp Cook.

Outing tells about camp cookery, including the cook. The genuine camp cook is an artist in his way. The musician makes men hear things entrancing, and the painter brings tears to the eyes if inspired. The camp cook genius, by the very way in which he does his work, makes a hungry.

"The camp cook," says the writer, "should take pride in the artistic handling of his utensils, particularly in the ability to keep half a dozen things going at once. He must keep already cooked things hot, and cook the uncooked things meantime. To do this he has got to understand the kinds of fire to have, whether large or small blaze, hot ashes or red-hot embers. He should also know how to get the most work at the least expenditure of labor from his comrades. Something many cooks are lacking in is the way to keep camp dishes clean for cooking. An unwashed apple saucepan will serve to fry trout in and give them a pleasant taste, but an unwashed fish spider will scarcely serve to cook apple sauce in. In other words, the cook should know when and what to wash."

Professional Pains.

"Is there any particular nervous complaint connected with your profession?" asked the cheerful idiot of the rifleman. "No," replied the tennis arm, the bicycle face and the baseball arm, and I thought there might be something of the sort among you gunners." "No," said the rifleman, "nothing of the sort." "It is very queer," said the cheerful idiot thoughtfully. "I didn't suppose you could hit the target without taking extraordinary pains." —Indianapolis Journal.

Sufficient Proof.

"We have been married only a year, Lizzie, yet you no longer dress to please me!"

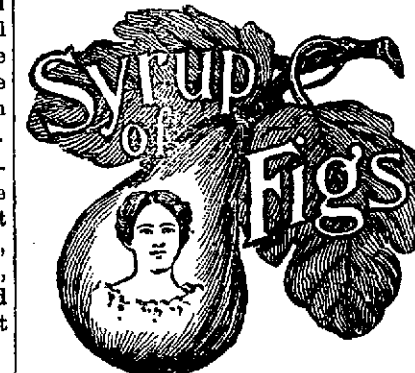

"That is because you no longer love me, Harold."

"Prove it!"

"Love is blind." —Detroit Free Press.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a congested condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

THE PANIC THEAT.

Farmer Explodes the Theories of the Chief Justice.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—Judge Bigelow in his last article on finance refers to the panics of the present century and says he thinks that the free coinage of silver without international agreement would so paralyze business that the country could not recover from it for ten years and probably longer.

Mr. Editor, as we have been having an epidemic of panics ever since we adopted the gold standard let us see if that standard is not in some way to blame for the present deplorable financial condition of the once prosperous United States. In 1865 the business of the United States was practically on a cash basis. The money in circulation was ample for the business demands and being made without international agreement it was of very little value in foreign lands and consequently stayed at home and served the people of the nation.

This kind of prosperity did not suit the people who live from exploiting labor by legalized robbery, and for the benefit of these shrewd manipulators the Contractions act of April 1866 was passed. This act provided for a systematic destruction of the currency, and was the beginning of an era of debt and hard times. The Credit Strengthening act of March, 1869, was passed to strengthen our credit so we could increase our borrowing capacity abroad to keep pace with the contraction of the currency at home. The Resumption act and the demonetization of silver quickly followed; these laws were enacted to facilitate the speed by which the people could be encumbered with interest bearing debts. This game of clench has reduced the people to such a hopeless condition of debt-slavery that the panic scare has ceased to have any terrors for them and the international sound money shouters will have to find some other weapon besides the panic club to prevent the people from abolishing the gold standard and inaugurating a financial system that will free this Government from the rule of the international bondholders.

The threat of Henry Clews that if the people should elect a free coinage President and Congress that Wall Street would overthrow free coinage in its hour of victory, shows that Wall Street, in its own estimation, is all powerful, and if Judge Bigelow will investigate the methods pursued by Wall Street, he will discover that these associated banks are dictators to the United States Treasury and that they have no respect for United States laws on finance and openly and notoriously defy them. As proof of this assertion I refer the gold standard advocates to the course of these banks during the summer and fall of 1893. The same can be said of the associated banks of Boston, Philadelphia and other Eastern cities. These acts of law breaking by the powerful banks are not confined to the Cleveland administration, but have been repeatedly done under Republican administrations. These law-breaking institutions and their allies in Europe are the greatest champions that the gold standard has, and to follow their lead is almost a crime against humanity and civilization.

AN APOLOGY.

Dr. Hogan Admits That He Was Mistaken.

Some time ago Dr. Hogan conveyed the idea through the columns of the Plumadeer that Kelley of the JOURNAL and Davis of the Appeal were lost, etc. Yesterday Dr. Hogan came to this office, apologized for the remark, admitted that he was mistaken and that he is the individual who is lost. The JOURNAL fellow sympathized with the doctor, who finally conceded that the majority might be right and he wrong at the present time, and that he had no alternative but to support McKinley or Bryan, the latter being the nominee of the Populist party, he preferred him to Mr. Hanna's man, the candidate of the plutocrats. It is therefore probable that the doctor will do yeoman service for the people's candidate during the campaign and deliver some sledgehammer blows on Mr. Hanna's barrel.

A BLOODY DUEL.

Sheriff Douglass of Nevada County, California, Kills a Highwayman and is Shot to Death.

Sheriff Douglass of Nevada county, Cal., went out Sunday to search for a highwayman. Not returning that night his friends became uneasy and started out yesterday morning to look for him. They found his horse tied up a half mile from town and shortly after discovered the Sheriff and highwayman lying near each other, both dead. The surroundings and the wounds on the two men showed that there had been a terrible fight to the death, but whether on Sunday or during the night could not be told.

It is thought by some that the robber had a pal who perhaps killed the Sheriff. There is intense excitement at Nevada City over the killing of the Sheriff. Several robberies have been committed of late, all evidently the work of the same man. Several attempts have been made to capture the fellow, but have always failed. Sheriff Douglass started out alone Sunday to endeavor to capture the robber, and must have come on him and fighting commenced at once. The name of the highwayman is not given in the dispatches.

A Challenge Open to Any Baseball Club in the State.

The Silver Star Baseball Club of Virginia City seems to be doing a good deal of talking through their hats about being the champions of the State. If they are such fine players let them send a forfeit to the Evening Gazette, in any amount they want to play for, and it will be immediately covered and a game arranged for. If the Virginia boys don't want to "fish or cut bait," possibly there is another club in the State that wants to play for money. If so, send along your forfeit and it will be covered. Dr. Bergstein Has a Narrow Escape.

Dr. Bergstein had a narrow escape from serious if not fatal injury yesterday. While coming into town one of his horses stepped into an ugly hole near the depot and fell headlong, and it was so sudden that the doctor was jerked forward over the dashboard of the buggy and only saved himself from falling between the horses by throwing his hand forward onto the doubletrees. Bystanders came to his rescue and the team was stopped and he was released from his perilous situation. Shortly after he started for the hospital and discovered that his fine watch was missing, and supposing that it had fallen from his pocket hurried back to town and questioned those whom he remembered as being present at the accident whether they had seen the watch or noticed anyone pick it up. His search for it at the time was without result, and he enlisted the aid of Constable McInnis, who immediately had doggers out describing the time piece. The doctor was quite worried over his loss, yet felt that he had escaped luckily from the accident, even if the watch was not recovered. Last evening he went home and in looking around found his lost watch in another pair of pantaloons. The doctor did not make any remarks derogatory to himself, but thought out loud a few words and started back to town and gave himself credit for the $50 reward he had offered. He took the joking on his absentmindedness good naturedly last evening, saying he could stand it with good grace as long as he had recovered his property. Hereafter he proposes to wear a cable around his neck with the watch slung to the end of it, and says he'll be totally dazed if the watch don't have to pull his head off if it gets away again.

Condensed Testimony.

Chas. B. Hood, Broker and Manufacturer Agent, Columbus, Ohio, certifies that Dr. King's New Discovery has no equal as a cough remedy. J. D. Brown, proprietor of St. James Hotel, Fort Wayne, Ind., testifies that he was cured of a cough of two years standing, caused by La Grippe, by Dr. King's New Discovery. B. F. Merrill, Baldwinville, Mass., says that he has used and recommended it and never knew it to fail, and would rather have it than any doctor, because it always cures. Mrs. Hamming, 222 E. 25th street, Chicago, always keeps it at hand and has no fear of croup because it instantly relieves. Free trial bottles at S. J. Hodgkinson's drug store.

On the Notification Committee.

Two committees, one to notify Bryan and the other to notify Watson of their nomination for President and Vice President of the United States respectively, were appointed by the Chairman of the Populist National Convention. These committees consist of members from each State. J. M. McCormack of Reno was appointed on the committee to notify the nominee for President and J. C. Doughty of Elko was appointed on the committee to notify the Vice President.

John Sparks has returned from a visit to his ranches near the Utah line. E. O. Davis, the drug specialty man, changed cars from Virginia last evening for California.

Dr. Stubbs arrived from San Francisco yesterday morning and returned west on last night's train.

Justice Linn had a quiet day yesterday in the police court. It was so dull Sunday that even the drunks could not get up enough energy to get into jail.

Mrs. R. E. Miss M. M. and Miss Nora Queen of San Francisco are guests at the Riverside. Mr. R. E. Queen is expected to arrive in Reno on Thursday.

The rope house at the C. & C. shaft at Virginia caught fire yesterday, creating considerable excitement, but the blaze was soon under control and there was little damage.

Commander Booth-Tucker of the Salvation Army will return from California this evening on his way East and will speak for a few moments during the waiting of the train.

Professor Lowers was out on the street yesterday, and is much better after his severe experience than he expected. He does not think that his eye will suffer any permanent injury.

John R. Bradley says the hay and grain crops in Elko county are the best on record. The people are almost unanimous for Bryan and the gold ticket will not get a hundred votes in the county.

F. Aronson, San Francisco; Chas. Hildebrandt, Dennison; Edgar Wilson, Omaha; Wm. Simpson, Buffalo; Sam Hollingsworth, Wadsworth, and Dave Horn, Colorado Springs, registered at the Palace Hotel last night.

The Reno wheelmen are making extensive arrangements for their lantern parade on next Friday night. A number of novel and interesting features will be introduced and the affair promises to be one of the events of the summer.

Charles Huff of Woodford was killed Friday. When found by some tourists it was discovered that his neck was broken. He was driving a balking horse and it is supposed the horse became unmanageable and backed off the grade, killing the driver.

While a passenger was purchasing his sleeper ticket last night at the ticket office some scamp picked up the traveler's valise that he had placed upon the floor near him and skipped out with it. Up to a late hour the officers had not found it.

The Gazette of last night says a McKinley and Hobart club was organized at Carson Saturday night with 180 members. The News of last evening says 115. There is some difference in the figures, but a good showing must be made, even if the gravestones have to be canvassed.

Wm. McCormick, sheriff of Douglas county, visited Reno yesterday, having come after V. H. Crane and Frank Hynson, charged in that county with obtaining goods and money under false pretenses and arrested by Constable McInnis. The sheriff returned on yesterday afternoon's local with his prisoners.

T. W. Griffin, representing the Sacramento Bee is in Reno. The Bee is a fearless champion of the silver cause. It abandoned Republicanism when the party became plutocratic, and now ably advocates Bryan and free coinage. It deserves the patronage of the silver man, and, no doubt, will largely increase its subscription list in Nevada.

THE IRISH PASTOR.

He Is the "Soggarth Aroon" of the Poor and Needy.

There is perhaps no better pastor in the world from the spiritual point of view. The Irish people regard him with mingled feelings of awe and reverence and love. A good deal of this regard is no doubt inspired by superstition—by a dread of the supernatural powers supposed to be possessed by "God's anointed," but, apart from that Father Pat has secured for himself the warmest corner in the hearts of his flock by his excellent qualities as a spiritual pastor, as a friend when the soul is in need, as a counselor in sickness, distress and misfortune. Many of the priests may lack social grace and culture, but they are eminently fitted for the spiritual duties which, as pastors, they have to discharge. The gentlemen need not for the hard and repellent services—as they appear to secular eyes—of the Catholic church in Ireland.

Father Pat's single minded devotion to the duties of his office, and his keen interest in the spiritual needs of his flock, gave him a sure title to the respect and reverence of the people than culture and learning. Besides, he is brought into intimate relations with the people all through life, but especially at its most momentous and solemn occasions. "Soggarth aroon" is the people's term of endearment for Father Pat, and one of the most popular of the peasants' songs asks:

Who in the winter's night,
Soggarth aroon,
When the cold blast did bite,
Soggarth aroon,
Came to my cabin door,
And on my earthen floor
Knelt by me, sick and poor,
Soggarth aroon?

Regarding them as a body, the priests are indeed a very simple minded, unworldly and warm hearted body of men, without craft or guile—though, according to their enemies, who know them not, these are their distinctive qualities—and they pass through their narrow, colorless and self sacrificing lives cheerfully and gladly, seeking no rewards, so far as the world is concerned, but the reward of a good conscience.—Confessions of a New

A Remarkable Difference in the Cost.

The JOURNAL reporter looked up the bill yesterday that was allowed the Office Specialty Company in 1892, for putting in the steel boxes in the Auditor's vault. The cases in the vault are one foot longer than those in the Clerk's office and corner work had to be done in the vault, while in the Clerk's office the cases are straight. The corner work makes additional expense, yet the Auditor's cases were furnished for $820, a portion of it having been paid to a carpenter in town for work required in the vault in order to fit the cases, as against $1,498 allowed by the Commissioners for the cases in the Clerk's office.

The cases differ but little. The Auditor's cases have roller book shelves while the Clerk's have the automatic locking combination and closed counter. The corner work and fittings for the former would offset the improvements in the latter, but there is an extraordinary difference between $820 and $1,498.
